

Job Seekers Simply Love Hound.com Due to its Numerous Benefits

November 13, 2009

This press release informs the readers that Hound.com is a job site that compiles all the jobs available in the market and posts them on their site. This is an inexpensive and user friendly job search site which job seekers simply love.

Hound.com is considered to be the best job site for those who are searching for jobs. The website not only caters to the needs of the job seekers, but also takes care of the needs of the recruiters. Hound.com compiles all the jobs that are currently available in the market. It also posts the jobs which go unadvertised. Hound users find the site very easy to use, quite useful and they simply love it because of the benefits they get by being its member.

Many of them received interview calls within a span of 7 days. Houston, TX, a satisfied customer said that, 'Within just 7 days of using Hound I found Executive Assistant position, by just 3 or 4 follow up calls and just one interview. Thank you Hound.com''.

Many customers did admit that Hound is very different from several other job sites. The customers admit that experience with Hound is always wonderful. Many customers say that they have been called for interviews within the first week of using Hound. Each and every job seeker using Hound can expect positive results within a very short duration.

The site owners are concerned about their customers and see to it that they get suitable results. The site ensures that the customers do not waste their time scrolling through the irrelevant job searches. Even a fresher who has just graduated from college can find over 100 jobs matching his profile. The website also provides assistance that is extremely helpful and helps a job seeker get his desired job.

The website also displays the employers' career pages directly which help the job seekers to find jobs easily. Trenton, NJ admits and says that, 'The information your site provides is of a great deal of value. What Hound is doing in order to accomplish its objectives of getting jobs from employer career pages is remarkably impressive. Let me remark that you must be a good friend to countless professionals. Again, thanks!''

Most job openings are posted on employer websites and not commercial job boards. Hound lists unadvertised job listings from employer websites which receive hardly any applications because people do not know about them. Hound does not focus on any sort of advertisement and only caters to the interest of job seekers, this is why it is their first choice. Susan from NY a Hound member said, 'Everyone who told me about Hound was not kidding. This site is absolutely unbelievable! I can literally see all of the jobs available at almost all New York-based companies on the site quickly. This is an incredible tool for locating great and exclusive jobs in my area. Thank you so much!''

Recruiters also benefit from Hound.com as the site displays exclusive jobs. This is what one of the recruiters said. 'I feel like I am going to triple my recruiting income this year. I have already secured four confirmed job offers from major companies in the past 24 hours since joining Hound. Or should I say, 'since I became a 'Houndie?'' Hound is an incredible resource."
