

Featured Employer – AOL

Introduction- Headquartered in Broadway, New York City, AOL was previously called America on Line. It was built by Jim Kimsey in 1983 from a former company known as Control Video Corporation. Today AOL is a household name with global offices throughout the world. It has a membership of 30 million plus from all over the world.

It uses a number of communication methods, i.e. The HuffingtonPost.com for news, MapQuest for maps, AIM for instant messaging, MoviePhone for entertainment and Engadget and TechCrunch for technology.

In 2005 AOL was the first Internet company that won an Emmy award.

- The company was listed among the top companies for executive women by National Association for Female Executives, 2012.

- AOL figures on the list of the '100 best companies' for 5 consecutive years, especially for offering a family-friendly working environment.

- AOL was ranked as one of the '100 best companies' for working moms in 2013.

1. Founders Of The Company - Jim Kimsey
2. Chairman & CEO - Tim Armstrong
3. No Of Staff (employees): As of August 2013 it employs 999 employees
4. Total Revenue - US$ 2.19 billion as of 2012

Payroll and Benefits: The company offers a friendly, relaxed and trust-based work culture and many benefits that make employees feel good about working in this company. AOL has placed on the list of the '100 best companies' for 5 consecutive years, especially for offering a family-friendly working environment. Some other benefits and perks AOL offers are listed below:

- Excellent salary package

-
- Flexible time option
 - Work-life balance
 - Child care development center on the campus
 - Job security - which is priceless today
 - Work from home option
 - A work culture based on trust
 - Onsite gym
 - Subsidized/free meals on campus
 - Free massage to ensure that tired employees work out their muscle kinks
 - Half day Fridays
 - 401K plan
 - Excellent health care
 - Nap rooms (yes, AOL allows their employees to take a nap when they are tired at the workplace)
 - 3 days full paid leave for community service
 - Free drinks and snacks
 - Excellent work review methods

For Careers at AOL search Hound.com for listings today. People working at AOL find the workplace relaxed and comfortable. Though the demands of the job and stress levels are high, the company ensures that all that can be done is done to ensure that the employees get the most out of their working hours. There are ample opportunities to grow professionally.

For more details about the company, visit their website.